THE TELEGRAPH WIRED 50 Heath Bunting

Heath Bunting is on a mission. But don't asking him to define what it is. His CV (bored teen and home computer hacker in 80s Stevenage, flyposter, graffiti artist and art radio pirate in Bristol, bulletin board organiser and digital culture activist (or, his phrase, artist) in London) is replete with the necessary qualifications for a 90s sub-culture citizen but what's interesting about Heath is that if you want to describe to someone what he actually does there's simply no handy category that you can slot him into.

If you had to classify him you could do worse than call him an organiser of art events. Some of these take place online, some of them in RL, most of them have something to do with technology, though not all. One early event that hit the headlines was his 1994 Kings Cross phone-in, when Heath distributed the numbers of the telephone kiosks around Kings Cross station using the Internet and asked whoever found them to choose one, call it at a specific time and chat with whoever picked up the phone. The incident was a resounding success: at 6 pm one August afternoon, the area was transformed into 'a massive techno crowd dancing to the sound of ringing telephones', according to Heath.
